CEDRIC POOTTAREN GENERAL SOFTWARE LICENCE. (CPGSL)

Version 3, November 2013, 2008-2013 J.C.P Laboratory Corporation

©J.C.P Laboratory 2008-2013
Port-Louis, Mauritius
jcp.lab@gmail.com

Everyone is permitted to copy and distribute literal copies of this license without alteration.
If there are any questions regarding this End-User License Agreement
Please contact us using the above details.

License Agreement

This agreement is between you, the current software publisher and the J.C.P Laboratory (Some software of this foundation is covered by this license) for the software package(s) you downloaded. The aim of this license is to preserve only the copyright holder of the software accompanied with this license the rights and privileges of modifying, distributing and copying this software whether to third-parties or to the public in general.

However, all software accompanied with this license is freeware and should be free of any cost provided that you do agree with the terms and conditions herein below:

Software distribution and use

1. Unless stated otherwise, every software accompanied with this license are not to be uploaded or distributed by any possible means including the Internet or any file hosting site without the authorization of the prior author (Along with the J.C.P Laboratory consent). If ever the issuer of the software allows any or some means of software distribution method then a note should be placed indicating that the software can be distributed under certain conditions (if ever). You may not accept the terms and conditions of this license but no any other material allows you to use and distribute (if allowed) software accompanied under the terms of this license. These actions are banned by the law if you don't accept this Eula. If you are allowed to do redistribution of the software, a verbatim copy of this license should be committed to the recipient(s) so that he or she may know his rights regarding the use of software accompanied with this license.

Software aim

2. Any software that may accompany this license is not to be used in any illegal way. Deeds other than copying, distributing, selling and modifying are not covered by this license. Any software under this license must not be used for any hacking or malicious purposes. Any attempt against the terms disclosed in this Eula will automatically annul your rights under this license.

Software Components

3. By complying with this license you agree not to modify this software either by disassembling, decompiling or modifying the software package(s) and its internal components including any types of documentation supplied with it. Unless specified otherwise, only registered co-operate users and trusted third parties are allowed to do modifications and manipulation of software components in accordance with this Eula.

License Coverage

4. The J.C.P Laboratory may edit and review this license but the aim of this Eula will stay the same as long as its version number. Changes to the license might be necessary to address new issues. However, the J.C.P Laboratory may also release new versions of this license, each version covers a particular concern and may differ in terms and conditions, therefore, any software accompanied with a CPGSL Eula statement should mention the appropriate version which applies to it. Any older or newer versions are not to be considered.

No Warranty

5. As software accompanied with this license are freeware and free of any cost. The J.C.P Laboratory and the software publisher / copyright owner do not guarantee its reliability and therefore there is no warranty of any kind applicable for it. The use of the software remains at the users' own risk. Neither the publisher /copyright owner nor the J.C.P Laboratory will be held responsible for any software malfunction or damages caused by it.

Not For Sale Software

6. All software and its respective components issued with this license are not for sale.
Please report illegal use of software to the J.C.P Laboratory team or to the copyright holder of the software using contact details below;
jcp.lab@gmail.com
support@jcplaboratory.net46.net
<Publisher's email here>

Disclaimer

A user of our software package(s) acknowledges that he or she downloaded this software and he or she agrees that the author(s) and the J.C.P Laboratory do not guarantee its reliability. The user further acknowledges that the prior author and the copyright owner (Which can be the J.C.P Laboratory) are not responsible for any of the software malfunction and system damage. The software will be at the user's own risk.

End of CPGSL License statement

Apply these terms to your own software

You are developing new software and you want to protect your software's authenticity? You are welcome to reproduce this license and attach it to your programs.

What's the best way to do so?
It is better that the license agreement shows off at the start of the program's execution or at the beginning of the software installer program. You may even mention the license and its version number in the application's about and provide a link to it whether on the internet or to an offline source. If you tend to permit the user some rights which are explicitly disclosed in this license make it clear in the application's about box. Example:

This software is protected under the terms of the <link>CPGSL License Version 3<link>
However, you are welcome to freely distribute this software by any means.
© yyyy <Publisher's name>

A digital copy of this license can be found online at:
http://site46-content.jcplaboratory.net46.net/docs/eula/cpgsl/3/en-us/
or scan this QR code.